(See preface to answer to Question 11, Section 2 (Publications and Research) in Supplemental Statement for period ending June 30, 1971.)

Japanese Exports to the United States: Analysis of "Import-Pull" and "Export-Push" Factors

A book-length study conducted on behalf of the U.S.-Japan Trade Council by Dr. Wilbur F. Monroe in June 1978 examining factors contributing to the U.S.-Japan trade imbalance in the U.S. economy as well as in the Japanese economy. During the first and second printing of this book some 700 copies were circulated to the American news media and opinion makers in government and business. Demand for the book has been far greater than anticipated and it is now in its third printing of an additional 2,000 copies.

Distributed 3,800 reprints of an article by James Abegglen and Thomas Hout of the Boston Consulting Group, entitled "Facing Up to the Trade Gap with Japan" which originally appeared in Foreign Affairs. These were accompanied by a cover letter pointing out its significance in understanding U.S.-Japanese relations.
